

How to kill two problems with one product.

Sure-Strike™ is good for the apartment property manager's bottom line.

The innovative new product, Sure-Strike™, is striking a chord with both apartment owners and residents alike. As the first significant improvement in strike plate technology in more than 100 years, the Sure-Strike™ strike plate system addresses two of the main problems for entry doors: security against kick-in burglars and deadbolts that won't lock properly.

First, the alarming number of kick-in burglaries of multi-family and apartment buildings is of great concern to the managers and renters of these structures. Property managers are also concerned about the maintenance costs of repairing these kicked-in doorframes and the increasing number of lawsuits from assaulted residents.

Sure-Strike helps resist kick-in burglaries while making the weakest part of the door one of the strongest. In fact, Sure-Strike provides security and adjustability to the door like no other strike plate in the world.

While enhanced entry door security would be reason enough for apartment owners to install Sure-Strike, there's a significant maintenance benefit, as well. In structures where the door has shifted out of alignment, the traditional strike plate requires periodic adjustment to ensure proper door closure and lock function.

Sure-Strike solves this age-old problem with an ingenious, new solution: a patent-pending, multi-pin system that self-adjusts to accept misaligned deadbolts. With Sure-Strike ensuring proper deadbolt alignment, maintenance staff can spend fewer hours addressing door issues and more time focusing on other important projects.

So in addition to being an added security measure, Sure-Strike also provides owners with measurable savings down the road.
